

Family Storytime @ TC May 16, 2013 - Ducks & Birds

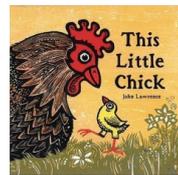

We see a lot of ducks and birds flying around our community, especially Canadian Geese, robins, seagulls, and pigeons. This is a sign of Spring! Reading and writing are very important literacy skills for your children and they will become more successful in high school, if they are prepared for kindergarten and have developed a habit of reading more books everyday. By using your home language to educate the young ones, they will have a better understanding in the comprehension portion. Try to incorporate songs and nursery rhymes to make their reading experience more FUN and CREATIVE!

Created by happyphi

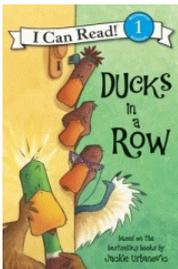

Birds

by Kevin Henkes ; illustrated by Laura Dronzek. --

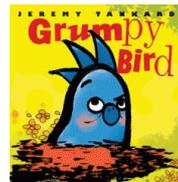

This little chick

John Lawrence.

Ducks in a row

based on the bestselling books of Jackie Urbanovic ; story by Lori Haskins Houran ; pictures by Joe Mathieu. -

Grumpy Bird

Jeremy Tankard. --

Here a chick, where a chick?

by Suse MacDonald.

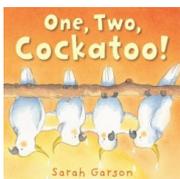

Penguin says "please"

written by Michael Dahl ; illustrated by Oriol Vidal. --

Family Storytime @ TC May 16, 2013 - Ducks & Birds

We see a lot of ducks and birds flying around our community, especially Canadian Geese, robins, seagulls, and pigeons. This is a sign of Spring! Reading and writing are very important literacy skills for your children and they will become more successful in high school, if they are prepared for kindergarten and have developed a habit of reading more books everyday. By using your home language to educate the young ones, they will have a better understanding in the comprehension portion. Try to incorporate songs and nursery rhymes to make their reading experience more FUN and CREATIVE!

Created by happyphi

One, two, cockatoo!

Sarah Garson. --

Purple Little Bird

by Greg Foley. --